

Student Mayor Favors
Junior High School for City; Other Projects

"Mayor" Fawcner Has Not Studied Financial Plan for its Erection But Backs Junior High School Idea.

WOULD BAR DIVINE

Student Aldermen Would Prevent Religious Leader's Parade Here Memorial Day.

Kingston high school students learned at first hand today how a city government is operated when "Mayor" Charles Fawcner and his cabinet took over the reins of government at the city hall, while the "common council" met and organized and prepared to hold its regular meeting this afternoon. At noon today the "mayor" and other "city officials" gathered at the municipal auditorium where luncheon was served, and then returned to the city hall to resume their deliberations.

"Mayor" Fawcner when seen in his office today by a representative of the press was questioned as to his attitude on the question of erecting a junior high school in Kingston. "I am heartily in favor of the project," replied the "mayor" as he leaned back more comfortably in his chair.

"Have you given any consideration as to the financial aspects of the problem, and evolved any plan as to how the building of the school could be financed?" he was asked. "I have not had the time to go into the financial aspects of the situation," replied the "mayor."

Asks Demonstrations. The "mayor" indicated that he was deeply interested in the work carried on in the city laboratory, and also in the work of the police department and especially in the radio cars, and he said he was planning to arrange with his police board to have a demonstration of the broadcasting system given for the benefit of himself and the other city officials.

While the "mayor" was busy in his office conferring with his "Corporation Counsel" Elbert, Loughran, son of Attorney Roger Loughran, the members of the "common council" were busy on the third floor in the council chambers where "Alderman-at-large" Fred Christiana was organizing the aldermen into various committees.

Want Divine Barred. The "aldermen" were all at their desks early busy writing resolutions they intended to present at the "regular council session" this afternoon.

One of the resolutions was "Resolved that Father Divine be forbidden to hold his rally in Kingston on Sunday, May 30, Memorial Day."

Another alderman introduced a resolution that some sort of a light be placed at the Broadway crossing so that approaching automobiles would know when to stop. "Sometimes the whistle cannot be heard above the noise of traffic," said the resolution.

Another alderman wanted to do away with the old buildings in the city and replace them with new, and also wanted the storing of junk on the sidewalks prohibited.

More playgrounds and more parking grounds for cars was advocated by another alderman.

Would License Bicycles. In order that the finances of the city might be increased one alderman planned to introduce a resolution that bicycles be licensed, the fee to be from $1.50 to $2 a year.

That the high school students appreciated the opportunity afforded of taking over the reins of government was shown by a resolution that the experiment of running the city by the high school students be allowed every year.

Another alderman introduced a resolution prohibiting jay walking in the streets.

His Appreciation. "Mayor" Fawcner said that in behalf of his fellow students he desired to express his appreciation to Mayor Heiselman and the other city officials for the privilege accorded the students today.

All Sworn In. All of the city officials from the "mayor" down were "sworn in" this morning in the city clerk's office where they took the "oath of office."

John C. Johnston Missing. Buffalo, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—Police of eight states, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and private detectives hired by the Buffalo Labor Council, today were seeking John C. Johnston, 63, Buffalo union labor leader, missing since last Friday night. Police said they learned that Johnston had made several speeches in which he opposed the committee for industrial organization and pleaded with local unions to maintain their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. The C.I.O. opened an enlistment drive in the Buffalo area recently.

YWCA Campaign
Will Be Continued,
$5,027 Reported

An enthusiastic group of workers in the Y. W. C. A. budget campaign gathered Monday evening at the association building for supper and to hear the final reports of the drive to raise $7,000 to carry on the association work for the coming year. The division reports showed a total of $5,027.05 had been subscribed from approximately 1,300 subscriptions, a result which attested to the arduous labor of all the workers, but which was disappointing in its results.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Y. W. C. A., that this committee strongly felt that the campaign must not end until a larger amount had been raised. While the association has a reserve, much of this is definitely pledged as building fund, and the small reserve balance would soon be completely exhausted. The plans for the coming year have been made with a view to strengthening the program and to make this possible the Y. W. C. A. must have a yearly budget in excess of that of the past.

In response to this plea, a group of workers on the drive volunteered to aid the finance committee in continuing their efforts to raise the $7,000 needed for this program.

Mrs. G. N. Wood, president of the Y. W. C. A., presided at the supper, and the speaker was the Rev. Charles Palmer, who warmly praised the work of the Y. W. C. A., saying that there was a great need of such an organization for girls and young women in these chaotic times, and that he believed the association could provide an all-round program offered by no other agency in our city.

The team reports were as follows:
Division 1—The "Do or Die"ers
Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Captain
Mrs. Stelle, Lieut. $ 227.75
Mrs. Walker, Lieut. 182.50
Mrs. Staples, Lieut. 240.25

Division 2—Married Women's Club
Mrs. John B. Sterley, Captain
Mrs. Hutton, Lieut. $ 131.00
Mrs. Monroe, Lieut. 179.00
Mrs. St. John, Lieut. 105.25
Mrs. Brinnier, Lieut. 118.00

Division 3—Professional and Employed Girls
Miss Elsie Phillips, Captain
Miss Bailey, Lieut. $ 108.00
Miss Osterhout 154.75
Miss Millard 91.10
Miss Powley 145.00

Total for the day $ 498.85
Previously reported $3,444.45
Grand Total $5,027.05

Division 1 was awarded the Higginson cup for having secured the largest total throughout the drive. Mrs. Holcomb commended all the teams for their fine work, the competition having been very close and the division totals very evenly balanced. Mrs. Terwilliger was given the prize for having secured the largest number of subscriptions of $2 or more. Others that were especially thanked for their splendid assistance were the ministers and speakers, The Freeman and the Leader for their cooperation and publicity, the supper committees, the Girl Reserves who put on a short play, Miss Bell and Mrs. Rignall, who had charge of the singing, David Burgevin who sent many lovely flowers, and A. R. Atkins, who kindly loaned his adding-machine.

Those who will carry on the campaign work are the members of the Finance Committee, Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, Mrs. G. N. Wood, Mrs. John W. Matthews, Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler, Mrs. Myron Teller, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. James Betts, Jr., Mrs. John B. Sterley, Mrs. Alva Staples, and Miss Annie K. Fuller; also the following team workers: Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell, Mrs. Theron Culver, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Miss Emily Hoyeradt, Mrs. Arthur Russell, Miss Laura M. Bailey, Mrs. Elbert MacFadden, Miss Katherine Millard, and all the members of the Industrial Girls' team.

Youngest "Eagle" Will Be U. S.-British Citizen

Washington, May 25 (AP)—As long as he lives, the new born son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will be regarded as a citizen of both the United States and Great Britain unless he definitely swears allegiance to one or the other.

This is true because of his birth to American parents on British soil.

Authorities on citizenship questions said today that both countries operate under laws recognizing dual citizenship in such cases. One is known as the "law of blood" under which the country of origin of the parents claims their issue as citizens regardless of what country they may have been born in. The second is known as the "law of the soil" whereby the country of birth claims new born children as citizens regardless of the nationality of their parents.

After reaching his majority, the new Lindbergh boy may, if he chooses, swear allegiance to either government. In such a case he would cease to be recognized as a citizen of the other country.

Rosendale to Elect
New School Board
In Meeting Tonight

The people of the Union Free School District No. 1 of Rosendale will meet tonight at the school building in the village of Rosendale to elect members to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of five of the seven members of the school board about a month ago.

According to the state educational law, this meeting will be called promptly at 7:30 o'clock and will be open to all interested citizens.

Because the Rosendale school board, led by President Harry Ten Hagen, refused to renew the contracts of two teachers, Miss Gertrude Schinnen and Miss Frances Pine, many people of the town arrayed themselves on the side of the ousted teachers and demanded the reason for such action on the part of the school board. The school board held a closed meeting behind locked doors with the townspeople clamoring for admittance, and the result was that five members of the board filed their resignations, leaving only Silas Roosa, school treasurer, and George Meurer, clerk, as members.

Whether other matters will be discussed at this meeting is not known, but with the selection of practically a new school board, it is quite likely the subject of renewing the contracts of the ousted teachers will come before the meeting.

Rockefeller Body Travels Northward for Private Funeral at Tarrytown Estate

North Tarrytown, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—The body of John D. Rockefeller was borne northward today to waiting members of his immediate family, carried with the lack of publicity formalities which characterized his life.

Privacy was the keynote of all arrangements for final honors to the man who, although a great philanthropist, lived secluded, a shunner of public notice.

The body was in a special Pullman car attached to a New York-bound express from Ormond Beach, Florida, where the Industrialist-philanthropist died suddenly Sunday morning, two months short of his 98th birthday. He lay in a simple but rich mahogany and bronze casket, bedecked with a few lilies. Friends had been asked not to send flowers.

The train was due in New York about 5 p. m. (E. S. T.). The funeral Pullman then was to be routed a few miles further northward to a private siding behind the 3,500-acre Rockefeller estate, Pocantico Hills, near here where it was due about 7

DeCicco's Request
To Quash Petition
Before State Board

Albany, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—Michael DeCicco, school trustee in District 7, Ulster county, asked the State Department of Education today to deny a petition for his removal on charges preferred by a taxpayer.

An attaché of the department said a hearing probably would be held on the removal petition, filed by Mary Olivetti, East Kingston.

She charged DeCicco with violation of his trusteeship in that he: Refused to call a special meeting of district voters to fill a vacancy left by the removal from the district of Trustee Maurice O'Bryan.

Accepted remuneration for trucking coal, sand and gravel contracted for by the school district.

Failed to file a proper voucher when he collected $15 from the district as a reimbursement for funds expended by him.

DeCicco, in the answer filed with the department, claimed School Superintendent Clarence A. Johnson had advised him and the other remaining trustee that calling of a special meeting was unnecessary inasmuch as the annual meeting was but four months distant.

He said he had trucked the coal, sand and gravel but added he did so at the request of the firms supplying it to assure immediate delivery, they claiming their trucks either were engaged or unsuitable. DeCicco said the required voucher had been filed for the $15 reimbursement.

Accompanying affidavits from Johnson, Joel Brink of the firm of Brink Brothers, Lake Katrine coal dealers; James Smith, of East Kingston, who supplied the sand and gravel; and Thomas McConnell, clerk of the school district, supported his contentions.

Reds Capture Town, Region

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 25 (AP)—Gen. Emilio Mola's insurgent army was reported today to have captured the town of Yurre and a wide region to the north, opening the way for a double thrust against Galdacano, strategic highway junction southeast of Bilbao and key to the city's "iron ring" defenses. With two insurgent columns hammering toward it, Galdacano seemed destined to be the center of the crucial battle for possession of the Basque capital.

Italian Jews Must Renounce
Zionism or Face Expulsion,
Duce's Newspaper DemandsEight Aldermen Explain
Stand on Elimination
Plan of Crossing Here

Following the recent accident at the Broadway crossing of the New York Central railroad which cost the lives of two men and placed a third in the hospital in a critical condition, all being members of the paid fire department, there have been many arguments as to the powers the Common Council had in the matter of the Broadway crossing elimination plans last year. Recent publicity stated that the council had rejected the elimination plan by an eight to five vote which to our minds would tend to create the impression that the votes of the eight aldermen were responsible for the plan not being put into effect. In fairness to ourselves, and the citizens of the city, we, the eight aldermen who voted against the elimination plan, ask the use of the columns of The Freeman to give some facts which to date, since the accident, nothing has been published. We believe these facts will enlighten the public and to no small extent give them some knowledge of just how much power the council had in the matter and how much weight the five votes for the elimination plan counted for and also whether or not the eight votes against the plan carried any weight. The following excerpts from a communication by Mayor Heiselman to the council dated August 11, 1936, the date of the meeting at which the elimination plan was rejected might prove of interest. We quote the following:

"It would appear that the public service commission is resolved to proceed with the elimination of this crossing. We have done everything within our power to get our plan accepted. The commission declines to accept it. The corporation council has stated that the commission have the power to construct any plan they approve without regard to the wishes of the city so long as the crossing is eliminated by depressing Broadway. Nothing in the law requires the commission to obtain the approval or consent of the city or the property owners. The wisdom of concentrating such power in the hands of a state board in a matter such as this, when the welfare of our community is at stake, reasonably may be doubted. We may cry out in protest but it is all of no avail. These are the facts in the case and, no matter how distasteful, they must be faced as such."

The above paragraph shows very clearly that according to the mayor, the council had no power in the matter. We were asked to support the city plan, but to support it would not have eliminated the Broadway crossing due to lack of power by the council.

Heading further in his communication we quote the following:

"The Broadway crossing is situated in the center of our city and on our longest, most important and most traveled street, the only through east and west thoroughfare we have. Broadway is the nerve center of our community life and probably always will be. The manner in which the crossing is eliminated will vitally affect us as a community. Therefore, the plan by which this crossing is to be eliminated involves a most grave decision. The decision rests now in the hands of the members of the public service commission. He has exhausted all the powers at our command to insure a proper solution of this most important problem. There is nothing left."

Rome No Longer Will Tolerate Anti-Fascist Hebrewism, as Inimical Both to Italy and Germany.

RELIGION ALLOWED

Despatch Says Purely Religious Gatherings Will Be Allowed by Italian State.

Milan, Italy, May 25 (AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini's newspaper demanded today that Italian Jews publicly declare themselves enemies of "international Hebrewism" or renounce their Italian citizenship and residence.

"We do not admit that our Hebrews can have the mentality of their co-religionists who were and are the inspiration of the Spanish horrors, of the French disorientation, of the Soviet inferno," Oreste Gregorio wrote in the newspaper, the Milan Popolo D'Italia.

"The Hebrews of Italy face a dilemma which up to now they have ignored—perhaps transported by a religious impulse or by a vision which did not elink to reality—a predicament and inevitable dilemma," Gregorio wrote.

"Either they must publicly declare themselves enemies, we mean enemies—of international, Masonic, subversive and, above all, anti-Fascist Hebrewism and give to their manifestations a character simply and sincerely religious or renounce their Italian citizenship and residence."

"Hostile Sympathies"

"It is inconceivable that in synagogues and communities, meetings begin with expressions of fidelity to Italy, the king and Il Duce and, at the same time, demonstrate sympathies, even though theoretical, with problems and actions hostile to Italy, to the king and to Il Duce."

The newspaper specifically condemned Italian Jewry's support of Zionism and its protests against the German Nazi race principles. Opposition to Nazi ideas, the paper held, are "irreconcilable with the friendship that binds us to Germany and which has objectives far more vast and fundamental than the Jewish question."

Zionism, it charged, is designed to upset another state, under British control, "in definite opposition to the Mediterranean spirit of Italy." Also, it contended, no faithful Italian subject could endorse a movement "hostile" to Arabs and Moslems after Mussolini's declared Islamic policy of friendship.

(Il Duce, on his recent visit to Libya, Italian Mediterranean colony, assured the protection of Italy to her Moslem and Arabic subjects. Il Duce, also, on a trip through the Libyan gulf, pledged protection to loyal Jews.)

Tappen Camp Tells Of Its Action Here For Memorial Day

Kingston, N. Y., May 24th
Editor, Kingston Freeman:
Owing to publicity and criticism given to the committee of arrangements for Memorial Day, in your local papers, as secretary of the Memorial Day committee since 1931, and Commander of Tappen Camp No. 1, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, the oldest organization in the city of Kingston, outside of the G.A.R., to plan and participate in the Memorial Day observance, we feel that explanations are due to the good citizens of Kingston why this committee felt compelled to give up all plans for a parade and general observance.

A meeting of all organizations was called to be held in the American Legion building on Sunday afternoon, April 18. Those present were Morton Finch, chairman of Kingston Post American Legion; Joy S. Ross, American Slater and myself from Tappen Camp, Sons of Union Veterans. Regrets were received from Commander John L. Greene, of Joyce-Schrick Post V. F. W., stating that their organization had to attend a meeting in Catskill but would cooperate in every way with our committee. We were informed that Tuesday night, April 27, was an open night so we adjourned until that night, meeting to be called at 7:30 p. m.

On April 27 at 7:30 there were waiting in the American Legion building the following: Commander John S. Holliday, of Pratt Post, G.A.R.; Commander John L. Greene and Edward Wortman of V.F.W.; Joy S. Ross and myself of the Sons of Union Veterans and Prof. B. C. Van Ingen, superintendent of school.

At that time we were informed that there was a banquet at the municipal auditorium, so after repeated telephone calls to the auditorium to try and get more representatives to the meeting, at 8:55 we departed to our different homes.

On Wednesday evening, May 19, another meeting was called and at that meeting was Chairman Morton Finch, Robert Elsmann and Andrew Murphy, Jr., of Post No. 150, American Legion; Com. John L. Greene and Edward Wortman, of the V. F. W., and myself, representing the Sons of Veterans. After much discussion as to the poor support of other patriotic organizations to send representatives to these meetings so that we could get organized, the following motion was made by Edward Wortman, of the V. F. W., and seconded by Andrew Murphy, Jr., of the American Legion: "Owing to the lack of support of patriotic organizations and the non-attendance of them and the city officials to our meetings, that activities for 1937 be postponed and that money appropriated by the city for music be held over to 1937." Meeting then adjourned.

As secretary of the committee in 1936, on April 25 of that year, a letter was sent to 33 organizations to participate in Memorial Day observances, even at this date, May 24, I have not received a reply from any of those letters. Mayor Conrad Helsenman is well aware of the fact that great difficulty has been met for the past two years trying to observe Memorial Day in the city of Kingston. I refer you to his remarks of May 27, 1935, at Kingston Point Tappen Camp, No. 1, Sons of Union Veterans, is fighting hard to keep Memorial Day a sacred day of observance in honor of our fathers and grandfathers who set aside that day in honor of their deceased comrades and we have received that heritage from them and we will always keep it. It is true we have a small organization of only 50 members but with our auxiliary we do decorate 700 graves in the city of Kingston, and we have never yet failed to do honor to the Stars and Stripes that our forefathers fought and died for, and preserved for this nation so that other organizations might honor and glorify it.

DOFFING HATS IN LIFTS EXPENSIVE

Costs Hotels in Los Angeles $100,000 a Year.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Doffing the benny in Los Angeles' lifts (elevators to you) costs the city's hoteliers an easy $100,000 yearly as a chivalrous tribute to Milady.

But far from bemoaning such expense, P. G. B. Morris, manager of the Hotel Clark, told a group of eastern railroad and travel representatives that the sum was little enough, and gladly would be doubled to keep Los Angeles on top as the world's most courteous metropolis.

Morris based his figures on the mileage turnings of the Clark's battery of passenger elevators. A six-months' survey, he said, showed that the Clark's lifts are compelled to travel an average of 13,250 extra vertical feet per day because of the excess space occupied by hats worn over the chest of polite males in the presence of women passengers during peak load periods.

Every such chapeau, carried athwart a manly bosom takes up space ordinarily occupied by half a passenger hence compelling extra trips, Morris said. This information was given the harassed agents assembled in the Clark to iron out conflicting wrinkles in the arrival dates of what agents said would be some of the largest organized tours ever to come to Southern California. These tours are all scheduled for the coming summer.

"Where the Clark's elevators now travel an average of 48.3 miles per day, at least 17 per cent of this total, our survey proved, may be attributed to dead-heading male hats of all kinds," Morris said. "Our own hotel's contribution to this gallantry averages roughly $4,200 yearly in the form of extra manpower, wear and tear on machinery cables and equipment and increased power consumption."

"This figure multiplied by the number of buildings and hotels where equal courtesy is practiced, easily runs the city's bill for this form of gentility, past the $100,000 mark. It is, however, a happy expense and offers dramatic proof that far from being calloused by the so-called feminist movement, today's average male is fundamentally the gallant courtier of his great grandfather's day—at least in Los Angeles."

Duke Fined for Chasing Stag on Neighbor's Land

Avallon, France.—Despite an attempt by the French foreign office to influence a provincial court to quash the charge, the duke of Westminster, a British peer and one of the biggest landholders in France, was fined for chasing a stag into a neighbor's property.

The fine was 100 francs—actually 700 francs or more under the French system of multiplication of the franc for penal purposes, equivalent to prewar value, and also including the costs—plus one franc damages. The duke's neighbor, Maitre Brichat at Joux-la-Ville, received the one franc damages. (A franc is currently quoted at 4.48 cents.)

The pursued stag jumped a hedge into Brichat's country estate with a pack of hounds at his heels, followed by the duke and his party. Brichat brought suit. The foreign office tried to quash the case because of the duke's high station and his friendliness toward France. The duke of Westminster recently entertained the duke and duchess of Kent, brother and sister-in-law of King George VI., of Great Britain, in Montmartre night clubs during their visit in Paris.

PUBLIC HEALTH MEETINGS

The rallying of public understanding and support in behalf of the nationwide movement for syphilis control is the event of the year in public health. Community conferences, public discussions and newspaper articles are breaking down the conspiracy of silence which heretofore has made it almost impossible to wage successful public warfare on this serious communicable disease.
 Three public meetings will be held in this city this week and large attendances are expected as the growth of realistic public interest is rapidly increasing.

National Social Hygiene Day, observed from coast to coast, resulted in 400 meetings attended by 100,000
 people. At Washington, D. C., conference with representatives present from every state in the Union, heard this appeal from Surgeon General Thomas Parran: "Syphilis must be the next plague to go. Our children will hold us criminally careless and incompetent if, with the means at hand, we fail to end this scourge
 within our generation."

The aim to control and ultimately to exterminate syphilis, frank objective of the campaign of public education now being waged throughout the nation, finds inspiration in the Scandinavian countries. Widespread discussion, the suppression of quackery and the provision of unlimited treatment services are among the chief concerns in that country.
 Infected persons who refuse to take treatment or who discontinue medication are punishable as socially dangerous persons and new cases are meticulously traced to reach sources of infection. Consequently, the disease is virtually under control. It is possible that similar applications of common sense in the United States, growing out of the present widespread educational campaign, might yield equally good results.

ONE CHILD SAVED

A quick-thinking woman jumped from a moving car, snatched a two-year-old child off the pavement and ran to the curb in time to save the youngster from being run over by a truck. The driver of the car from which the rescuer jumped brought his car to a quick stop as possible. The truck driver stopped, as did other traffic. No one but the woman who carried the child to safety had seen the baby in the path of the truck. Before she drove away, the lady gave an older sister she found playing in a yard near by an earnest talking to about responsibility to babies in the family.

The story is heartening and instructive. It is heartening to have the child saved and to hear of a person who kept her head and her nerve in such a crisis. The instructive features are too numerous to go into, but chiefly the incident shows
 again the peril of allowing little children to play near a busy thoroughfare. Playgrounds and backyards are better than sidewalks. Streets, unless roped off for this purpose,
 should be out of the question.

MARINES AND BASEBALL

United States soldiers, sailors and marines have left their impress on a large number of countries. They have converted the natives in every country where they have gone to enthusiasm for baseball. Playing the game is almost as popular in Japan,
 the Philippines and Cuba as it is right here at home. But that's not all. Baseball is a matter of interest, even when not very well played, in Nicaragua, China, Australia, Ceylon, Egypt, Italy, France, Scotland and Ireland.

Our brown friends become expert players more readily than Europeans.
 British cricket remains a mystery to us, and baseball remains a matter of indifference to them. Most Americans are profoundly thankful that the marines are no longer patrolling foreign territory on demand. Yet it is rather interesting to learn that the baseballs, bats and gloves they carried ashore with them on earlier

expeditions were as welcome as the uniforms and guns were unwelcome.

CAVIAR OUTLOOK

News that the world is about to suffer a caviar famine is not too disturbing. It is Russian caviar that is referred to. Sturgeon in Russian waters are becoming either scarce or hard to catch.

There are still plenty of sturgeons
 in other places. Great Lakes sturgeons, for example, are abundant, and there will be no shortage of caviar if gourmets could be persuaded that the American product was as good as the Russian. It may be only a matter of a publicity campaign to educate the people to patronize domestic fish. What then? Will caviar come to grace the table in the humblest homes, or was Shakespeare right in the first place?

HOARSENESS TROUBLE

No one pays much attention to a little hoarseness because it passes away in a few days, and is known to be due to overuse of the voice or to the fact that a little "head" cold has extended down the throat to the vocal cords. The vocal cords have been asked to do too much work or the "cold" has slightly inflamed the edges of the vocal cords and they do not vibrate properly.

However hoarseness may not be such a simple or innocent condition as this. Some weeks ago I referred to the warning given by Dr. A. J.
 Wagers, Philadelphia, in the Pennsylvania Medical Journal, Harrisburg.

Dr. Wagers stated that, "hoarseness, particularly if unaccompanied
 by pain or cough, is too often ignored by the patient until more alarming symptoms appear." While most cases of hoarseness are not serious, hoarseness may be the first sign of pulmonary tuberculosis or the first symptoms of a dangerous growth.

That hoarseness is a symptom that must not be treated too lightly is evident from the fact that Dr. Watkins-Thomas goes thoroughly into the causes of hoarseness in The Practitioner, London.

"Hoarseness and weakness of the voice are often found together, but the conditions are different. For the voice to be produced clearly the edges of the cords must be straight and sharp. If the edges of the cords cannot meet properly, the voice will be weakened or entirely lost (complete loss of voice), according to the degree of failure of the cords to meet. If the edges of the cords are at all roughened, even by a little hard or crusted mucus, or if the edges are not quite sharp, the voice will be hoarse. As anything which roughens the cord produces hoarseness, it can readily be seen that "anything" may be just a little mucous, or it may be a dangerous growth. Instances where hoarseness is the outstanding symptom may occur in acute or chronic inflammations
 of the throat, tuberculosis, blood diseases, or growths." However as most cases of hoarseness are due to simple causes and the hoarseness passes away in a few days or a week or two, there is usually nothing to worry about.

However, "if a patient is hoarse for three straight weeks, with no letup, an examination of the throat should be made with the special instrument, the laryngoscope."

MURDER
ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: Our wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt, opens with the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop.
 A series of strange attacks is apparently explained when we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Then Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder by an unseen hand, and the Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger uncle, disappears. Sleeping powders nearly finish Aunt Martha. Leaving Gay Palmer, Mike's fiancée, with her, Mike and I search the cellar, desperately hunting the Skipper.

Chapter 34

Locked In

I TRIED the next closet and the next and the next. Splintered wood, broken glass, and a mess of fruits and vegetables. Mike took the ax from me and I stood hanging on to the light while he bashed in two more doors. Then I took another turn and he took another. Before the last closet we paused, looking at each other.

I went at it quietly. Perhaps we were lucky that it was to be in the last one. I shuddered to think of the effect our wild smashing would have had on a person inside any of the others. It took more time this way.
 The wood gave way slowly with a dull, tearing sound. I seized a loose

With a...
 we tumbled pell-mell into the...
 and threw open the kitchen door
 upon an empty room.

The picture in my mind sent me tearing up the back stairs. On the landing, Mike nearly knocked me down attempting to pass me. I flung open M. Farrington's door, but Mike was into the room ahead of me.

M. Farrington was sleeping. Gay was sitting beside her, and in a far corner of the room William and Annie were whispering together.
 They all turned sharply toward us.

"All right, I think," Gay answered our unspoken question. "Mike, what under the sun—"

I interrupted her. It seemed to me that this was no place for telling the story.
 "My fault, kid," I said. "I thought I'd had a revelation or something."
 "But—"

"Not here. Mike will tell you about it. You two go on down and start Higgins rustling up some food.
 I'll stay with Aunt Martha."

I shoved them both into the hall, still protesting. Why had William bolted that cellar door? I was almost positive that he had, and I was equally positive that there would be no use in asking him. He had certainly saved M. Farrington's life, but— At any rate, I sent both him
 and Annie down to help Cook. Alone,
 I sat down beside M. Farrington.

She looked better, but not enough better for much rejoicing. The Skip-per's words, "Her heart is bad," board and ripped it away—then another and another. Mike's face was turned away, his shoulders hunched.

 Snatching the light from his hand, I flashed it upon—six orderly rows of canned lima beans.

"I suppose," poor Mike's voice was hollow, "we'd better get back to the others. They'll be wondering."

I couldn't look at him. "I'm sorry,
 Mike," I said. "I'm damned sorry."

"Forget it!" His laugh was a pretty weak attempt. "Boy! Will Aunt Martha be wild when she sees this!"
 It struck me that M. Farrington might never see it.

"Let's get back upstairs."

We left the ax where we had found it, and started down the passage, our light flashing ahead of us. Mike's hand closed on my arm suddenly.

"Jim," he whispered, "wasn't there a light over the stairs?"

I stared into the blackness ahead,
 and my heart did a flip-flop. "Probably burned out," I said. "The echo of my voice wasn't reassuring. I breathed a sigh of relief as we gained the top of those rickety steps and my hand found the door knob.

Crashing In The Door

"WHAT the devil's the matter?"
 demanded Michael.

I had to swallow before I could answer.

"The door's locked on the outside —bolted." The reflected light from the kitchen shown clearly through the keyhole when I extinguished our torch.

I handed Mike the flashlight and without a word he went back for the ax. I put my shoulder to the door. It was useless. On that narrow top step there was barely room for steady footing, let alone for bracing yourself for a push. The steepness of the stairs made a running leap out of the question.

I was obliged to stand there waiting for Mike, my ears cocked for sounds from the kitchen beyond—sounds that never came. By the time an advancing ray of light appeared down the passage, my imagination had me on the run. I imagined that the killer of the Skipper had finished his work. I imagined that I had sent Mike down to his death while I stood at a door. I saw the glint of light on the steel ax, and swallowed hard.

"Here you are. Hurry!" Mike's voice was urgent.

It didn't take me 10 seconds to crash in that door.

HOMESPUN YARN

This year North Carolina state colleges have had short courses for jan-

were drumming in my head. Well, as long as she was sleeping there was nothing more we could do. Sitting there with anxious eyes glued to the old lady's face, I went through a bad half hour.

A Conviction Grows Me

ONE terrible conviction was gnawing at me persistently—the conviction that the Skipper alone was responsible for our weekend of horrors. Her peculiar actions had been the direct cause of our presence at the Bluff. We had only her unsubstantiated story to explain her invitation, and that story was bizarre,
 to put it mildly.

It was possible, of course, but it was difficult to believe that Norman Farrington had lived all these years unknown to his own son. Was it plausible that Martha Farrington, who possessed above all things a generous amount of common sense,
 would have insisted upon harboring
 a dangerous lunatic in that deserted spot?

Another stumbling block was the presence of Jude Blinshop. Surely a person of the Skipper's determination could have found a dozen pre-texts for revoking a commonplace invitation when he realized the very real danger involved. And why the unusual attitude of both sisters toward poor Jude? With Michael flaunting Gay under M. Farrington's nose, the old lady had almost ignored Jude. And the Skipper's "Keep Michael away from Jude!" still rang in my ears.

Step by step I once more reconstructed the events of the case. We had come there because of the Skipper. Her attitude had been strange, particularly in regard to Jude. She had been out of doors for an indefinite space of time on the night of the girl's death, and her actions were none too satisfactorily accounted for. She would have known more about the whereabouts of firearms at the Bluff than anyone else in the house. And Jude would have followed the Skipper into the storm without a moment's hesitation.

She had been in my own sight during the episodes of Cook, Annie and Christopher, and she had been in the sight of all the others when William and I met our assailant. But again, we had Norman Farrington's reckoning with.

Man About
Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of those mistakes of no consequence bobbed
 up in the theater the other evening and gave the audience a giggle at what ordinarily was supposed to be a serious moment.

Noel Coward

The play was the late Sammy Shipman's "The
 R. and
 R. Lights," a drama based on recent headlines,
 and as the scene in question began to unfold Bruce MacFarland, playing a gangster, was supposed to whip a revolver
 out of his pocket and shoot Dorothy Hall, who, having fallen in love with the district attorney,
 had betrayed the gang.

At the appointed moment Bruce dragged at the gun, but it stuck in his pocket, and for a moment he experienced an agony of exasperation. Had this happened in real life, our tough fellow would have been riddled by a return fire—it took him that long to wrench the gun free—but in make-believe play, of course, Miss Hall faithfully stood by until he extricated his shooting iron and gave her the works.

ANOTHER incident which happened some time ago—before Noel Coward left, in fact—gave that sharp-witted author-actor an opportunity to spray the audience with one of his extremely opportune quips. It happened during one of the "Tonight at 8:30" playlets,
 and Coward was out near the footlights. Gertrude Lawrence, down stage, crossed the "boudoir" and attempted to turn out the lights.
 She pressed the switch but nothing happened. Then, several heartbeats later, the lights faded out and flashed back on. "Ah," murmured Coward, "this house must be haunted."

ONCE again there are rumblings
 and threatened torrents of lava from that turbulent Vesuvius
 of American politics, Tammany Hall, a circumstance which fetched tall, bachelor James J. Dooling back from a two-month quest after health in Florida. The Tammany leader was in a wheelchair
 when he left his special at Pennsylvania station the other day.

The big question was: Would he resign leadership of the Hall?
 Things haven't gone well for Dooling since he succeeded Boss Curry as chief Sachem in 1934. A time it was thought he would be able to whip Tammany back into its usual high estate. He certainly has all the qualifications.

"I'd love to sit beside you," barked Rip eagerly.

"Very well arranged so far," said
 Willy Nilly. "Now I think Mrs.
 Quacko Duck, Mr. Quacko and the other ducks could sit back of me and beside Rip, while the little ducklings had better go in the trailer."

"Willy Nilly," said Mrs. Quacko, her head on one side and with a very pleased expression on her beak, "could I sit right beside you for a little distance? Then maybe we could pass by Quackerville and I could shout out a quacking greeting to Mrs. Quacker."

Willy Nilly smiled. He knew
 Mrs. Quacko wanted to show her duck friend that they were going to have a trip.

"I think that could be arranged,"
 he said.

"Oh goodie!" exclaimed Mrs.
 Quacko, her wings all aflutter.

"Sometimes when we're traveling you can change places, too, but this is the way we'll start off," Willy Nilly went on. "Now the bears and Sweet Face and Top Notch could all go in the trailer."

Willy Nilly was afraid that perhaps Top Notch would want to sit in the front seat with him, but Top Notch cackled and said:

"A good idea. I can look out of the window and yet I'll keep dust off my feathers. They were ready."

Fog Hinders Flight Of Supply Planes

Moscow, May 25 (AP).—Swirling fog clamped down on the Soviet Union's air and weather base on a drifting ice floe at the top of the world today, forbidding for a day at least the flight of three supply planes from Rudolf Island.

Ivan Papanin, commander of the base, reported by radio at 7 a. m. (midnight Monday, E. S. T.) that the sky was "completely overcast by fog" with visibility limited to 500 meters (1,640 feet). The temperature was 10.4 degrees above zero Fahrenheit.

Meteorologists had hoped that the polar cyclone which carried the fog would pass by today and enable the apparatus and food-carrying supply ships to complete establishment of the air and weather outpost which the Soviet wishes to use to guide a flight across the Pole to the United States.

Preparations for this latter dash through the icy backyard of the world were being polished in Moscow by Sigismund Levanevsky, American-trained pilot. His flight may be the forerunner of regular commercial flying over this route.

RECIPES TO END CONSTIPATION

Every woman can protect her family from common constipation by careful menu planning. Often the cause of illness from constipation is lack of "bulk" in the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this "bulk" in generous quantity.

You can use ALL-BRAN in so many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Or make delicious bran muffins and breads—put it into griddle cakes, salads or soups, or over other cereals.

Just be sure each member of your family gets two tablespoonsfuls every day—and forget the illness caused by constipation. Serve three times daily, in severe cases.

You can also forget pills and drugs that nobody likes to take—and that so often fail unless the dose is constantly increased.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to help tone the intestines, and iron for the blood. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Constitution In 150th Year Looks Good For 500 More To Manuscript Experts

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

(AP Feature Service Writer)

Washington—Whatever the outcome of congressional and court wrangling over the constitution, the document itself—now in its 150th year—is expected to last at least 500 more years.

The writing has faded some but still is legible and the original four pieces of parchment—28½ by 23½ inches each—are in excellent preservation, according to manuscript experts at the Library of Congress.

The fading was arrested in 1921 when the document was transferred from the state department to a marble shrine in the library which shields the ancient rays of the sun by an amber screen between plates of glass.

It was May 25, 150 years ago when the "founding fathers"—most of them mere youngsters—got down to the difficult business of framing the constitution.

Delegates in their 30s outnumbered any other age group at the historic convention in Philadelphia and the average age was about 42 as compared with the 57 average of the United States senate today.

Nearly Wrecked in July
Founding Father James Madison was 36 and his Virginia colleague, Governor Edmund Randolph, 33. Pennsylvania's one-legged, brilliant Gouverneur Morris was 35. Massachusetts' able Rufus King, 32. South Carolina's Charles Pinckney, 29, and New York's great Alexander Hamilton only 30.

George Washington, convention president, was 55, while oldest of the 55 "clear-headed, firm-purposed but willing to compromise" delegates was the 81-year-old master conciliator, Dr. Benjamin Franklin.

Battles between the large and small states, combined with warring heads and the onslaught of lively stable flies threatened to wreck the convention in July.

Compromise On Congress
The major conflict was over proportional representation in the national legislature.

150 YEARS AGO IN PHILADELPHIA

Hard at work on composition of the constitution are (l. to r.) James Wilson of Pennsylvania, Alexander Hamilton of New York (bending over desk), James Madison of Virginia, George Washington of Virginia, and Robert Morris of Pennsylvania. Benjamin Franklin of Pennsylvania is seated at right and Daniel Carroll of Maryland is at lower center.

The large states' plan, originally offered by the Virginia delegation, called for representation in both houses on a population basis.

The small states' plan, presented by New Jersey was to continue the confederation idea of a single house and an equal state vote.

The Connecticut compromise finally adopted provided for lower house representation of the states on a population basis and an upper house elected by an equal vote.

Many proposals of the delegates seem almost fantastic to modern politicians. Randolph, who introduced the Virginia plan, wanted an executive authority composed of three men because he feared a single executive would make the government too much like a monarchy.

Hamilton, advocate of a strong central government, suggested the President be given an absolute veto on acts of congress.

Some wanted the President to be elected by congress and Gouverneur Morris urged that he serve for life. He also proposed life terms for senators, to be appointed by the President, and objected to distribution of representatives on a population basis only.

"Not liberty," said Morris, "but property is the main object of society."

Franklin Champions Poor
Charles Pickney, another "property man," would have required a property qualification of $100,000 for the Presidency, $50,000 for a judgeship, and like proportions for congressmen.

Replied Dr. Franklin: "I dislike everything which tends to debase the spirit of the common people. If this constitution should betray a great partiality to the rich it will not only hurt us in the esteem of the most liberal and enlightened men in Europe but will discourage the common people from removing to this country."

He urged that the President serve without salary with only his necessary expenses paid.

We the People

insure domestic Tranquillity, provide for the common Defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do hereby constitute and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article I

Section 1. All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

This is the start of the famous document born in the combined heat of debate and summer in Philadelphia in 1787.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway. "Wake Up and Live"

Here's what is rated to be the best musical comedy offering of the year with Band Leader Ben Bernie and Columnist Walter Winchell joining forces to bring you a fresh and invigorating new treatment to screen musicals. The laughs are spontaneous, the songs are well rendered and the whole show slides along in an entertaining and merry fashion. Alice Faye, Jack Haley, Patsy Kelly and Ned Sparks are featured players but Jack Haley, in the role of a bewildered radio entertainer, steals the show with one of the funniest and most enjoyable characterizations seen on the screen in many a day. A 20th Century Fox presentation.

Kingston. "You're In The Army Now" and "She's Dangerous". The army life is brought out into the open in the first offering at the Kingston, a British made play of American army life that runs the gamut of drama during the course of events. Comedy, tragedy, romance, quick death and dishonor are to be found in the story and Wallace Ford, Anna Lee, Grace Bradley and John Mills head the players. "She's Dangerous" is a play of intrigue wherein two suave crooks try to double cross each other. One is a man, the other a woman, and the woman is dangerous and deceitful until the end when love creeps up and changes her story heart. Walter Pidgeon, Tala Birell and Cesar Romero are featured.

Orpheum. "Hideaway Girl" and "Once a Doctor". Martha Raye and Shirley Ross board ship in the first feature and have a grand time trying to produce laughs for your entertainment. Robert Cummings is also in the cast of this very average comedy. "Once a Doctor" trots out the question of medical ethics all over again and creates quite a stirring drama in the second attraction. Donald Woods and Jean Muir head the cast.

Tomorrow

Broadway. "A Family Affair."

Life as it is lived in the average American home has been made into a real and compelling picture at the Broadway with Lionel Barrymore starred and featuring Mickey Rooney, Cecelia Parker, Eric Linden and Charles Grapewin. Great humor and great sorrow walk hand in hand through the drama and the acting is gifted and restrained throughout. Here's a refreshing show, a bright and realistic motion picture treat.

Kingston. "Song of the City" and "Too Many Wives". Double features continue at the Kingston, the first a story of the perils of the big city, its loneliness and its despair to one trying to conquer it. Margaret Lindsay is featured. "Too Many Wives" is a comedy offering of domestic uncertainty with Ann Shirley.

Orpheum. "The Last of the Mohicans." One of this country's traditional novels is remade into a fine picture at the Orpheum, the rather tragic tale of the last stand of the Indians against the ravages of the white men. The story is familiar to all and the picture is a carefully done epic that follows the original closely. Done on an impressive scale, the fight scenes are magnificent and the settings are impressive. Randolph Scott heads the cast of players.

Piccard's Balloon Prey to Fire Today

Brussels, May 25 (AP).—Professor Auguste Piccard's $35,000 stratospheric balloon was destroyed by fire today as final preparations were being made for a new ascent.

Flame from a gas burner used to heat air for lifting the balloon touched a pocket or fold in the bag just as the ground crew began attaching the basket in which Prof. Piccard was to have explored the sub-stratosphere.

A fiercely burning fire engulfed the 14,000-cubic yard rubber silk bag in a few seconds. It was reduced to a heap of charred wreckage.

No one was injured. Both Piccard and Max Cosyns, his young associate, were standing close to the balloon when the lower part of the envelope burst into flame.

Insufficient protection for the gas burner and a sudden gust of the light southerly breeze which caused a fold in the nearly-filled bag were blamed for the fire by Cosyns.

SUFFERS BROKEN WRIST IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. Elizabeth Parke of 22 Titus Place, Poughkeepsie, suffered a fractured wrist and other slight injuries about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon when a Chevrolet coach driven by her husband, Carlton Parke, collided with a large G. L. F. feed truck owned by L. C. Dixon who operates the G. L. F. feed depot on Fair street extension. The truck was being operated by William Emberson and was entering the state highway at Ulster Park from the premises of M. L. Churchwell. The truck was about to make a left turn south when the Parke car came north.

The driver of the Chevrolet was unable to avoid the truck and crashed into it driving the truck against a large tree at the driveway entrance and then continued north some distance before the Chevrolet was stopped. It was badly wrecked. The driver of the truck as well as the operator of the Chevrolet escaped injury. A month old infant in the Chevrolet remained fast asleep in its hammock during the crash but woke up later to mingle its protests to the affair. It was not injured. Mrs. Parke was taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment.

State Trooper Paul Senecal of the Port Ewen patrol was summoned and made an investigation. There was no arrest.

Cancer Control Meeting

An institute for public health nurses and health officers to emphasize the importance of cancer control and prevention will be conducted at Council Room, City Hall, Newburgh, on June 4, at 9.30 a. m. under the auspices of the Division of Cancer Control of the State Department of Health, according to an announcement today by Dr. H. L. Chant, acting district health officer, and Miss Mary B. Slattery, district supervising nurse. The division has undertaken an extensive educational program for health workers, including doctors, nurses, and dentists, and this cancer institute is the first of its kind ever held in this state.

New York recently convicted the leader of a ring of lawyers, doctors and "stooges" who is eight years defrauded insurance companies of hundreds of thousands of dollars in fake accident claims. It took more than four months for this particular leader to confess to the district attorney the multitudinous ramifications of his nefarious activities. Before he was through he had involved four physicians, 17 lawyers and four notaries. It was revealed that he had built up his "business" from 50 fake claim cases in 1929, to a peak production of 500 in 1935 and 1936.

Flanagan Gets $234 Verdict Here

Chris J. Flanagan was awarded a verdict of $234.88 in Supreme Court Monday in an uncontested action brought against Edwin B. and Ella Freer. William A. Kaercher, law partner of Mr. Flanagan, appeared for the senior member of the firm. Mr. Flanagan sued to recover money advanced, interest and services rendered in a mortgage foreclosure action which he brought against the defendants. Justice Rumbaugh directed a verdict in the amount sued for and the jury returned such verdict.

Super Service Goes Awry on Auto

Super service by one of Kingston's automobile service stations gave the owner of a car recently a bit of anxiety which was cleared up by the aid of the Kingston police department.

Desirous of attending a show at the Broadway Theatre and at the same time combining business with pleasure the man who resides some distance south of Kingston, left his car at the service station some distance from the theatre for a service job and told the proprietor of the station that he would call for the car after the show. Knowing it would be late and the service station closed he told the attendant to place the key in a secret place on the car and everything would be fine.

When the show was over he returned to the service station and found his car gone. His first thought was that someone had spied the secret place for the key and made off with the car. The local police were notified that the car was missing. An effort was made to locate the service station operator but without success. A friend was notified of the act and drove to Kingston to bring his friend home while the police looked for the "stolen" car.

As they drove down Broadway the friend suddenly spied a car being driven by one of Kingston's finest and it appeared to be the missing car. Giving chase they overtook the officer and ascertained it was the missing car. The mystery of the "stolen" car was solved.

Being desirous of giving super service the gas station attendant planned to save his customer a walk and when the service job was completed he ran the car up to the Broadway Theatre and parked the car where he believed the customer could not help but see it. He was mistaken, the customer hastened to the service station when the show was out and missed the car.

To complicate matters the license to the car was in the machine and before the police could start out to look for the "missing" car it was necessary to call Albany to ascertain the license number.

Notified of the "stolen" car the police were on the lookout for the car and when it was found at the theatre the officer on the beat climbed aboard and started for the city hall to report when he was overtaken by the owner.

Bridge Authority May Reduce Tolls

Albany, May 25 (Special)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman has signed the Bontecou bill authorizing the New York State Bridge Authority to reduce tolls on the Mid-Hudson and Rip Van Winkle bridges, providing the reduced amount meets with approval of the state comptroller and State Public Works Superintendent, and is sufficient to cover expenses of the authority and to refund its bonds.

The measure, sponsored by Senator Frederic H. Bontecou, of Poughkeepsie, also provides for an allowance of $1,500 a year to each member of the authority for travelling and other expenses.

Members of the authority are Robert Hoe, of Poughkeepsie, Addison P. Jones of Catskill, chairman, and Raymond D. Kennedy of Hudson.

Empt Claim on Land Taken in Reservoir Project Concluded

The claim of Ezra Empt for lands taken for construction of the New York city water project on the Rondout was concluded last week following hearings before Commissioners Flanagan, Aronowitz and Graham, members of the Delaware Commission No. 6. Testimony was completed on May 20 after testimony had been given by Henry Decker, Archie Smith, Tuthill McDowell and George Hoornbeek for the claimant and Jared Van Wageningen and Frank Hyatt for the city of New York.

Thursday, May 27, members of Delaware Section No. 6, commission will hold an extensive session at Albany and on May 28 and 29 hearings will be held when Thomas J. Plunkett expects to present testimony in the Bertha Holmes Lackawack claim.

The recently appointed Esopus Commission which is made up of Supervisor John Wadlin of Highland, Howard Beecher and William W. Hoppin met on May 21 and took a general view of the upper Esopus territory where numerous claims have been filed for damages and for acquired rights of the city to increase the flow of the Esopus creek from the Snaadaken tunnel to the Ashokan reservoir. This commission met on May 24 again when Edward Joyce and Senator Charles H. Walton appeared before the commissioners for the purpose of setting dates for hearings on claims.

June 3 and 4 the commission will meet and Senator Charles W. Walton will present testimony on behalf of claimants whom he represents. June 14 and 15 Edward Joyce will appear and present testimony for claimants whom he represents. June 23 and 24 will also be devoted to claims by Mr. Walton and the commission will meet again on June 29 and 30 when the commissioners will hear testimony of claimants of either Mr. Walton or Mr. Joyce.

On July 6 and 7 testimony will be taken from claimants represented by Mr. Joyce and again on July 13 and 14 his claimants will be heard. July 19 has been set aside and it is expected that Harry H. Fleming will start presenting the claim of the New York Central Railroad.

On May 26 and 27 Delaware Section No. 5 commission will meet to hear testimony on the claim of Giuseppe Infantone, parcel No. 1230, which is being taken in fee as part of a shaft site. Col. Raphael Egan of Newburgh appears for Mr. Infantone.

Thomas J. Plunkett has reserved several days in June for hearings before Delaware Section No. 6, commission and it is expected that hearings will be held on June 7, 8, 16, 17 and 18.

In all of the proceedings Henry R. Bright, John E. Egan and Vincent G. Connelly appear for the city of New York.

Grand Jury to Report on Friday

The grand jury which has been in attendance at the May term of Supreme Court has completed its duties and will report to Justice Pierce H. Russell on Friday afternoon of this week at 2:30 o'clock.

Last week the grand jury made a partial report returning two indictments charging Charles James Brown with the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Handelman at Ellenville on April 8, last. The grand jury also summoned several witnesses before it to investigate the alleged misconduct which has been reported among "angels" at various of the Father Divine "heavens" in Ulster county and among them who appeared before the grand jury was Faithful Mary, ex-lieutenant of Father Divine, who claims to have broken off with his missions.

Whether sufficient evidence has been gathered to warrant any charges against the Harlem negro's "angels" in Ulster county has not been disclosed and much interest is being shown in the anticipated report next Friday.

Eight Aldermen Explain Stand

for us to do but hope and pray that the decision which must be made by the public service commission will be for the permanent welfare of the city of Kingston.

After reading the quotations from the mayor's communication to the council, would you say that the council had any power in the matter? Would you say that the five votes had any weight to get the crossing eliminated or that the eight votes had anything to do with the crossing not being eliminated? We believe that the citizens of this city are intelligent enough to know where to place the blame.

And now let us take a look at the summary of the resolution which was defeated and state a few more facts:

(a) The city of Kingston requests that all the crossings in the city of Kingston be eliminated by depressing the railroad tracks.

(b) Reaffirms its unqualified approval of and preference for the city of Kingston's plan as described in paragraph 2, and renews its request for the acceptance of this plan.

(c) Expresses its satisfaction with 'Scheme B Modified' and wishes it substituted for the plan known as 'Issue A' dated October 23, 1935, but recommends that it be amended as pointed out in paragraph 3 hereof.

(d) Vigorously and unalterably opposes the plan described as 'Issue A' dated October 23, 1935.

Referring back to A of the summary regarding the elimination of all crossings by depressing the tracks, we say this had our utmost support.

B which refers to the city plan did not have our support and as the plan had already been rejected by the Public Service Commission, why vote in favor of a plan that had been rejected.

C. Scheme B Modified, did not meet with favor due to the fact that although several recommendations were made to have inserted in the plans, there was no assurance that this plan would be accepted or that plan A would be substituted, although plan A had been rejected by the city.

As to the vote on the resolution, although as the mayor said the decision and power rested with the Public Service Commission, we were then and are now, most heartily in favor of the elimination of not only the Broadway crossing, but all of the crossings in the city on the main line of the New York Central Railroad by depressing the tracks. If we had voted in favor of section one of the resolution and A of the summary, we would also have been voting for the other forms of elimination which were not acceptable, and neither the five votes for and the eight against, carried any weight.

To accept a form of elimination other than the one you would desire without putting up a most valiant battle, is something that should not be done. Let every citizen of Kingston battle for the elimination of the grade crossings on the main line by depressing the tracks, and make them show us why they cannot be eliminated in this way. We urge every organization to get behind the movement for the crossing eliminations by the depressing of the tracks.

By united effort much can be accomplished; without it little can be done. We hope that after reading the above, the citizens of the city will have a clearer understanding of the eight to five vote and also just how much power the council had in the matter.

Mrs. Beaufort at the time of her death lived at 983 Park avenue, New York city, and occupied in the summer the beautiful Dimmick property, "Woodcrest," at Rifton.

The will made in August 1933 makes the following provisions:

NINTH: I give and bequeath to BERNICE E. SEAYER, the sum of Twelve hundred dollars, ($1,200.00).

TENTH: It is my wish and I hereby direct that as soon after my death as my executors conveniently can, they sell at public or private sale all the works of art, furniture, furnishings, household articles and jewelry that I may possess and I request but do not direct that my said executors secure the services of Anderson Galleries, Inc., or American Art Galleries to appraise and sell my works of art; that my said executors secure the services of James P. Silo to appraise and sell my furniture; that my executors secure the services of Charlton & Company to appraise and sell my jewelry. I direct that the proceeds of said sales shall be used for the payment of legacies or necessary expenses in connection with the administration of my estate, if necessary, and the balance, if any, become a part of my residuary estate.

ELEVENTH: All of the rest, residue and remainder of my estate, real personal and mixed and wheresoever situated, I give, devise and bequeath unto my executors and trustees, hereinafter named, and to their successors forever, IN TRUST, NEVER-THLESS, to invest and reinvest the same, receive and collect the income therefrom and after the payment of just charges and expenses to distribute said income in the following manner:

New York—When Billy plays soldier and tears around the block aiming his toy gun at passers-by, should mother worry lest he become a militarist?

Not at all, says Dr. Prescott Lecky of Columbia University. Like all normal boys, the lad is just passing through a natural phase of development.

It really would be a matter of concern, the psychologist believes, if Billy shied away from guns and didn't want to be a general in the army. For all normal boys after they reach their sixth birthday begin to think of themselves in a "he-man" role.

Thus the small boy's longing to be a cowboy or a policeman. Both are heroic figures to him.

Says Viewpoint Changes

"Pacifists do not need to wage a campaign against stores which sell tin soldiers," says Dr. Lecky. "When your six-year-old fighter grows up and is confronted with the possibility of going to war, he will not see the matter in the light of his childhood games.

They say it's natural for youngsters to emulate their "heroes."

"Enlisting will be a fresh situation to which he will apply his thinking powers. Playing with guns in childhood does not mean that he will want to play with them all his life. And the idea that he would want to kill people when he grows up because he had owned a cap pistol as a child is simply ridiculous."

Scotfs At Habit Theory

When Dr. Lecky's own small boy, playing soldier, was asked if he might want to go to war when he grew up, he answered:

"Of course not. Do you think I want to get killed?"

Scotfs at alarmed pacifists who believe literally in the old psychological theory of habit formation, Dr. Lecky says:

"There are no habits. If we mean that a habit is the mechanical repetition of the same act. We never do the same thing twice in exactly the same way. We cannot even predict what an individual will do tomorrow."

"Then why get excited about wild speculations as to what he will do 20 years from now?"

YOU CAN HAVE CULTURE AND CHARM EVEN IF YOU LEFT SCHOOL EARLY

Uneducated Ruth drudges in her dreary rut. Cultured Nancy climbs to success. Yet these two girls started on the same level.

Both left school early to earn their living. But Nancy, determined that lack of culture should not hamper her, goes on with her education at home.

She has such fun filling out gaps in her knowledge—it doesn't seem like work at all. She gets tips on subjects to study from newspapers, radios and movies.

"House Considerations Constitutional Amendment" the headlines say. So Nancy brushes up on the Constitution and the amendment system.

Here she's delighting Jim with the story of Ben Franklin at the Constitutional Convention. Younger delegates had to go everywhere with Franklin, a gossipy old soul, to keep him from spilling Convention secrets.

Before a symphony or opera broadcast she finds out all she can about the composer and the story back of the music. This increases her enjoyment of the concert and helps her chat knowingly with musical people.

A movie about a Scottish queen starts her to delving in Scottish history.

No subject which ordinarily comes up in conversation trips Nancy. She ties all her fascinating scraps of knowledge together with a planned course of reading. Lindbergh Silent On Wife and Birth Of Son in England

London, May 25 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh established a new veil of silence today about his wife and their new born son, disclosed only yesterday by the most fier to American embassy officials.

After his disclosure, Lindbergh treated into hiding from even closest friends, who wished to congratulate him.

The only definite information England was that cabled from United States of the announcement made by an aunt of Mrs. Lindbergh in Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Annie S. Cutler, the said Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, said Mrs. Lindbergh had sent a letter that she had a son had been born on the night of King George VI's coronation.

Friends here recalled that Lindbergh had declined an invitation to attend the historic coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

At Cardiff, Wales, additional confirmation of the birth came in an announcement from Llewellyn, a British relative of Mrs. Lindbergh.

At Longbarn, the Lindbergh country retreat near Weald, in Kent where the colonel was reported have spent last night, a new carriage was delivered.

Dr. Eardley Holland, who was understood to have attended Mrs. Lindbergh at a London nursing home, now in Germany according to secretary who declined to discuss subject.

Frequent visits of Lindbergh to fashionable Mayfair nursing home within the last few weeks stood out the only clue to the whereabouts of Mrs. Lindbergh and their third child.

It was generally understood that the former Anne Morrow had given birth to the boy there and only said she had been entered under name of "Mrs. Charles" at the London Clinic at Devon Place.

The secretary of the institution said in a statement "There is patient of the name of Mrs. Lindbergh at the London Clinic and her mother has been here." But she pressed concerning "Mrs. Charles" he added:

"A ruling of the board of governors is that no information concerning our patients is to be given other than immediate relatives."

A doorman at the red brick nursing home—one of the newest in London—said the flier had been frequent visitor recently but beyond that no definite information could be obtained.

Thorough spraying before rain with fungicides that provide a complete coverage of foliage with fruit with a film of sulphur particles gave good control of the apple maggots in experiments in commercial orchards in the Hudson Valley during the past two seasons carried on by Dr. J. M. Hamilton, plant disease specialist at the State Experiment Station at Geneva, and summarized in station bulletin No. 678 which now available upon request to the station.

Just a Week Until Camp-o-ree Opens On Armory Grounds

Only one more week remains before the Boy Scout units of Ulster and Greene counties will stage their first annual Camp-o-ree.

This big affair will take the form of a three-day camp and will take place on the armory grounds in the city of Kingston.

In order to have adequate organization the camp will be divided into seven districts and the troops of each district will camp together under the direction of their district leaders. Each troop will be under the leadership of its own scoutmaster or his associates.

There will be many features in connection with the entire program, one of which will be the exhibits which the various units are working on and these will be set up in the indoor drill hall. Over 25 booths have now been asked for and these will cover such subjects as are of interest to scouting and out of door lovers, also Indian lore, model airplanes, short wave radio work, many kinds of handicraft and hobbies, and many others too numerous to mention.

In the demonstration on Saturday afternoon there will be included some scouting events such as signalling, first aid, there will also be fancy marching drills, model airplane flying, Indian dance, clown act, radio demonstration, musical numbers and rescue work.

The big parade which will take place on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 will find all units in line, and the advance word reaching the council office tells of at least nine floats that are being prepared by district or local units. The line of march which has been tentatively set starts the parade from the armory at 1:30 and will be: North Manor avenue to Albany avenue to the Governor Clinton Hotel, down Clinton avenue to St. James street, St. James street to Albany avenue, thence back to the field. Several bands and others will take part in this affair.

Another one of the features will be the opening camp fire on Friday evening and the many units are preparing short skits and stunts for entertainment. Over 21 stunts have already been planned and more are expected.

The public is cordially invited to visit the field at any time between 9 a. m. and 10 p. m. and see what takes place in the development and carrying out of this interesting affair.

Americans are eating more than two and a half billion pounds of fish every year, and over 160 different kinds of seafood find their way to the American table.

Color From Cuttlefish
The so-called "sepia" colors, familiar in the rotogravure sections of newspapers, are produced by coal-tar preparations and are more reddish in tone than the original sepia which was an organic coloring matter obtained from the cuttlefish. The word sepia comes through Latin from the Greek. In ancient times it was used as a writing ink.

High School "Mayor-for-a-Day" Tells His Ideas of City's Needs in "Annual" Message to Common Council.

STUDENTS GOVERN

Civics Class Takes Over Reins of Kingston Government to Study City Problems.

Today Kingston finds itself under the regime of Student Mayor Charles Fawcner following appropriate induction ceremonies performed in the Common Council chambers at the City Hall Monday evening.

In opening the evening's program, Mayor Conrad J. Heiseleman said that "It was a happy occasion for him, one that he had been looking forward to with a great deal of pleasure." He touched briefly on the intense interest manifest by the civics classes of the high school in the city government and expressed his desire to see this experiment of student government brought to a successful climax, so that more of these experiments can be tried in the future. The mayor further stated that he believed the running of a city government will become a science and by showing the school pupils of today just how the local government is carried on, the citizens of tomorrow will be able to vote for an intelligent and capable body of officials. "The whole city will be watching you tomorrow," said Heiseleman, in closing his remarks.

Mayor Sworn In
Mayor Heiseleman's next act was to swear in student Mayor Charles E. Fawcner, and to give to him the key of the mayor's office with the admonition that "The office of the city's chief executive was to open promptly at 9 o'clock and to remain open until all public business has been attended to."

In his acceptance speech, Mayor Fawcner stated that, "I do fully realize the responsibilities which go along with the job of being mayor of a great city such as Kingston, even for a day. . . . With the full cooperation of all the departments, we shall prove to the people of Kingston that student government is not only instructive but a practical institution."

Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk was the next speaker and assumed the duty of swearing in his successor, Fred Christiana, who in turn pledged himself to treat all resolutions proposed by the Common Council, in a just manner, and to attempt through this legislative body to improve city conditions.

City Judge Robert J. Flannery was sworn into office by "ex-mayor" Heiseleman, and he pledged himself to rectify violations of traffic laws by dealing with all delinquent drivers through the medium of a traffic school.

Various Speakers

Alfred Schmid, president of the Board of Education, spoke of the interest shown by Mayor Heiseleman in the development of students in civics affairs and thanked him on behalf of the board for the opportunity to try student government. Clarence L. Dumm, principal of the high school was called and expressed his desire for a successful experiment so that it might be repeated for the benefit of future civics classes. John J. Schwenk also spoke concerning the interest in the city government by the students, stating that, "It was a credit to the high school and the city."

The Common Council was next sworn into office together with the City Clerk and Deputy City Clerk and then ex-Mayor Heiseleman closed his part in the activities with a few words of instruction concerning the program for Tuesday and the statement that "What Mayor Fawcner says, goes."

The announcement of a dinner at the municipal auditorium and two baskets of flowers from "ex-Mayor" Heiseleman and "ex-Alderman-at-Large" Schwenk to the new Mayor and Alderman-at-Large, were presented.

Fred Christiana called the meeting of the Common Council to order and several resolutions were passed without a dissenting vote. These resolutions were merely rules concerning the governing of the council and the establishment of the official papers. Mayor Fawcner delivered his message to the Common Council which was received and filed as were also his appointments to the several offices of the government, and then, after the various aldermen's committees were designated, the meeting was officially closed.

The Mayor's Message.
In his message to the common council, Mayor Fawcner stressed four particular subjects which he believed should be given immediate consideration, and also touched on several other matters which he stated he would take up in detail on Tuesday.

Mayor Fawcner asked for immediate action on the elimination of the Broadway crossing, citing the tragic deaths of two of the city's firefighters as ample reason for his proposal. "An accident such as we have just had, in my opinion, casts a reflection upon the progress of our city. . . . No city has a right to lightly ignore such a problem. . . . Some thought should be given to the type of crossing best suited to this particular place with regards to practicability, convenience and expense. . . ."

The student mayor also advocated a suitable parking place in the vicinity of the Broadway Theatre, telling of the fire hazard which the parking of cars along the city streets creates. The subject of trees came in for his honor's consideration with the remark that "A city as historic and beautiful as Kingston cannot be beautiful without trees, so let's do everything possible to preserve the old ones and care for the new ones."

The idea of a local stadium was set forth by the mayor who favored such a public improvement and suggested that the council take some action on the matter, and in closing his address he stated that "Tomorrow I shall probably recommend further subjects for discussion, such as street repair work, condition of sidewalks, a junior high school, encouraging industry, and the elimination of all overhead wiring."

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The kiss, long the big punch in movie love scenes but lately under wraps, is returning in its glory.

It is coming back even in that hackneyed fade-out climax which for a while went under cover while sophistication, coyness, and comedy ruled the ending.

And next year's kisses—currently in process of manufacture on the sound stages of Hollywood—are going to be something else again.

Next year's kisses, if what goes on here is an indicator, are going to be gentle and a little more lingering than they have been in the past few years.

That fade-out kiss between Jean Harlow and Robert Taylor in "Personal Property" was a fair example of what to expect. It was the most prolonged osculation these eyes have seen since the movies went pure back in 1933. But it was a comedy kiss, and that makes a difference. The Garbo-Gilbert kissing marathons of old weren't supposed to be funny.

Sees Economic Reason

Rotund Archie Mayo, who has to direct some romantic passages between Olivia de Havilland and Leslie Howard in "Gentleman After Midnight," sees an economic significance in the kissing trend.

"The depression seems to be over," he says, "and that most certainly will be reflected in screened love as in real romance. With financial security around the corner, the world can find time to make love convincingly and unhurriedly. The four-foot kiss of the past three years can be lengthened now to occupy at least six feet of film."

And you can hear Lloyd Bacon telling his players, about to embark on a kiss, to "keep it sweet and gentle—take your time." Bacon's directions to kissers generally used to be "Make it short and snappy." And Mervyn LeRoy says, "There, that's right. Put some feeling in it, a little passion!"

An Endurance Kiss Mark

The love scene between Ian Hunter and Kay Francis in "Confession" is one of the longest filmed in recent months—longest in point of endurance kissing. It is the kiss that is supposed to seal their betrothal and it will occupy all the time and space on the screen permitted by the Hays office.

Love scenes between Bette Davis and Henry Fonda in "That Certain Woman" are also unusually prolonged and tender, photographically speaking. Even Martha Raye and Bob Burns, if this keeps up, may go in for serious, constructive cinema kissing.

The tender passion expressed by a gesture more tender than the passionate peck—that's the outlook for next year's kisses.

STILL VERY MUCH ALIVE

Rosita Diaz, (left) Spanish film actress reported shot as a spy in her homeland several months ago, seems very much alive as she arrives back in Hollywood and is greeted by Lunita Tovar, Latin actress.

Children's Part in Woodstock Fete

Woodstock, May 25—Nearly 350 children have been busy during the last few weeks preparing for their big event, the Children's Day program of the Sesqui-centennial, to be presented just below the first tee of the golf course at 3 o'clock on Friday, June 4.

The children in all Woodstock district schools are being coached in the songs that will be part of the program. Under the expert direction of Mrs. Besse Cohn and Mrs. G. C. Layman the Woodstock School and high school groups are now holding their final rehearsals of dances for the children's pageant. Mrs. Cohn has had years of experience with children's festivals and entertainments. She was at one time connected with the children's museum in Brooklyn, and has conducted her own school in Woodstock, besides being active in many children's programs in the village. Mrs. Layman, too, is experienced in children's activities here and has for some time successfully led the Woodstock 4-H girls. She is president of the Parent-Teacher Association, which is arranging the Children's Day program.

Pierre Henrotte, noted Woodstock conductor and violinist, is giving his time to rehearsing the violinists, who are to take part. Four have volunteered, Rhoda Neher, Warren Shultis, Barbara Herrick and Louis Stone. Mrs. Stanley Quick is rehearsing the singers and the rhythm band. In fact, all the teachers in the Woodstock schools are giving their fullest cooperation toward making the entertainment a successful one. The May Pole Dance and the Morris Dance are being rehearsed by Mrs. Cohn and Mrs. Layman. A king and queen of the May are to be selected from the kindergarten. At the close of the program a final surprise for the children is in store, a very special surprise for their entertainment.

Lock of Hair for Mourners

At elaborate funerals in Seventeenth-century America, a mourning brooch, containing a lock of hair of the deceased, was usually presented to every woman mourner, says a correspondent in Collier's Weekly. When a late lamented gentleman was bald or had an insufficient quantity of hair to fill several hundred brooches, men relatives and friends were called upon to meet the emergency.

Hedricks Fight It Out Tonight With Grunenwalds for City Lead

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

A king who still rules though his throne is tottering dangerously, and a king of marauders once again threatening to rip apart the American League, furnished baseball's biggest news today.

The king is Carl Hubbell. The marauders are the Yankees, walking champions in the junior circuit this season and now, with their teaming eye regained, back on top of the heap with a full-game advantage over the Philadelphia Athletics, who topped an 8-6 verdict to the Yankees.

Hubbell, credited with the Giants' defeat of the National League yesterday, led the 23rd pearl to his unbroken record of league triumphs. But the marauder faltered towards the end, as he failed to pitch the 10th hit in the last four innings and had to be relieved by Dick Coffman, who fanned the Yankees with two out and bases loaded.

Through their victory, the Giants moved into a virtual tie with the second-place and idle Cardinals. The Athletics, meanwhile, ousted the A's from the American League lead by battering the Indians into 14-0 submission.

For the fourth day in succession the Ruppert rifles gave evidence they are no longer fooling. In four days they have won as many games, rolled up 33 runs and collected 58 hits. The only item they slipped up on yesterday, while Spurgeon Chandler was pitching a six-hitter for his second straight shutout, was home runs. There wasn't a single four-bagger among their 16 hits, the first time in eight games they failed in that specialty.

Another streak ended in Washington where, though the Tigers beat the Senators, 3-1, Tiger Gerald Walker failed to hit for the first time since the start of the season. Rovie Lawson, six-foot right-hander, hung up his seventh victory of the year, as total equalled only by the peerless Hubbell.

The Red Sox, with Jimmy Fox's homer and two doubles pacing a 14-0 attack that gave veteran Rube Walberg his first win, jumped from seventh place to the head of the second division by trimming the White Sox, 9-5. The Browns were unable to come out of the cellar despite their 8-6 defeat of the A's, achieved principally by the heavy hitting of Harland Clift and the neat relief pitching of Jack Knott.

With Max Butcher allowing only six hits and one base on balls, the Dodgers hung up their first shutout of the season, by a 1-0 score over the Cincinnati Reds. The Rhinelanders dropped into last place behind the idle Phillies.

In the other National League game, Lou Fette and Tex Carleton both turned in six-hit efforts. Fette's yellow-bees made better use of their allotment, however, and Boston set back the Cubs, 3-1.

YESTERDAY'S STARS.

(By The Associated Press)

Spurgeon Chandler, Yankee—Hung up second straight six-hit shutout as mates battered four Cleveland pitchers in 14-0 victory.

Harland Clift, Browns—Homer with one on and ninth-inning single were telling blows in 8-6 defeat of Athletics.

Rovie Lawson, Tigers—Pitched seven-hit ball to gain seventh triumph of year, over Senators by 4-1 score.

Jimmy Fox, Red Sox—Belted homer and two doubles to lead way in 9-5 trimming of White Sox.

Dick Coffman, Giants—Fanned Johnny Dickshot in ninth with three on to save Carl Hubbell's winning streak and turn back Pirates, 4-3.

Budd Hassett, Dodgers—Got two for three and scored winning run in 8-0 setback of Reds.

Lou Fette, Bees—Checked Cubs with six hits as homers by Deb Garms and Gene Moore topped Chicago 3-1.

Paul Runyan Makes 68 in PGA Tourney

Pittsburgh, May 25 (AP)—The Professional Golfers' Association realized today that Paul Runyan is a pretty tough little guy when he's tired.

They failed to name the diminutive White Plains, N. Y., pro to the Ryder Cup team and "Lil' Poison" was sort of burned up. He gave the powers-that-be a snappy two-word rebuttal yesterday in the first 18-hole qualifying round of the PGA championship.

The words were: "Sixty-eight". And, as they started the final qualifying round this morning, Paul, along with young Byron Nelson, had a two-shot lead over the field. In addition, they were five shots out front of Henry Picard, the best scorer among those selected for Uncle Sam's tussle with the British in England next month.

ALTAMARI ACES TRIM TEACHERS 16-6

Behind the stellar pitching of "Mighty Mite" Bigler the Altamari Aces chalked up their seventh consecutive victory by taking over the Kingston High School faculty 16-6.

Len Avery, Irv Maurer and Russ Maurer were the main guns in the Aces' attack. Avery rocketed out two home runs and each of the Maurers hit a home run and three singles. Curt Clair received for the Aces, while Culver and Bailey tossed to Kenny for the teachers.

Fuller and Miller each connected for a three bagger for the losers.

After one week of competition in the City Baseball League the standings of the clubs show Hedricks' Brewers and Grunenwald's Home Leaders out in front with one victory apiece against no losses. Tonight at the Athletic Field at 6:15 o'clock these two teams will meet to fight it out for leadership.

Joe Brown, ace pitcher of the Hedricks, will try to hurl his team to victory, while Joe Mahar is slated to do the job for the Home Leaders. Joe Gardner will do the catching for the Brewers; Don Kelly for the Home Leaders.

Hedricks' infield will be lined up with "Bing" Van Etten at first, M. Berardi at second, Norm Niles at third and Jimmy Turk at shortstop. Johnny Quest, Ky Embree and either McLean or Bush will patrol the outfield.

Grunenwald's infield will be composed of Joe Dulin first base, Steve Didzik second base, Eddie Minasian third base, and Bob Purvis, G. Gadd, Flanagan, and Misove will be found in the outer garden.

Pitching dominated in the circuit during the first week, six hits being the highest number made by any single team. Long-distance hitting also was rare and the cases of beer donated, by Hedricks and Stantons were pretty safe.

Pittsburgh's Field Club golf course is capable of testing thoroughly the short iron game of professional golf brigadiers.

The host club to the P. G. A. has a par-72 course some 6,650 yards long arranged for the maximum pleasure of its members rather than for tournament trickery.

Contenders in the P. G. A., recalling Oakmont's treachery and the national open of 1935, have pronounced the Field Club course more satisfactory than that other Pittsburgh links.

Shorter than Oakmont, the Field course places little premium on length off the tee and complements the golfer with a balanced game and a fine touch around the greens. Most holes are constructed along slender lines with natural hazards all about. Gullies, bramble patches and woods spell trouble at many points. But there is a clear trail to every green for the careful driver. Fairways are trapped usually about 210 yards out to catch misused tee shots, but these should not bother pros.

Five fairways have out of bounds to the right and a few of the greens have a little dogleg. Yet the real test is in the second shots.

Some are elevated with sharp drops of as much as 10 feet in the rear. Many holes require pitch shots to the greens. In cases where the pin is not in the center, plenty of grief is ticketed.

Greenkeeper John McNamara asserted the course was in fine shape for the P. G. A., but pointed out that fairways have little roll at this season.

He called attention to another hazard peculiar to the Field Club—wind. Air currents shifting through the woods may change a No. 4 iron shot into a full brassie in the short space of 15 minutes.

Kingston High to Play Saugerties Here

The Maroon and White trossers of Kingston High will swing into action tomorrow afternoon at the Athletic Field at 4 o'clock against Saugerties High School.

This will be the first that the Miller men have taken the field against an opponent since last Wednesday at which time a powerful nine from Poughkeepsie beat out the locals 4 to 1. This defeat broke a three game winning streak of the locals and also gave Charley Bock his first defeat of the season.

Ed Schoonmaker will probably get the call for mound duty with Earl "Red" Slight on deck in case of an emergency. In the Kingston-Poughkeepsie game at Poughkeepsie, Slight hurled excellent ball. He was taken to the shower in the final frame but received credit for the win. The rest of the line-up will consist of Stoll, catcher; Halstein or McManus, at first; Coley at the keystone sock; Torry Maines in the hot corner; Captain "Chapple" Van Derzee, shortstop; Ashdown in left field; Schneider and Rua in center and right field respectively.

TRIPLE THREAT ON P.G.A. CROWN

the exact nature of which had not been ascertained. Bushranger, a seven-year-old gelded chestnut son of Stefan the Great War Path, was a leading candidate for all the leading steeplechase stakes in the metropolitan district.

7 U.S. Amateurs Still in Quest of British Golf Title

Sandwich, Eng., May 25 (AP)—The original United States contingent of a dozen seekers after the British amateur golf championship was down to seven as the second day's play began today.

Only one of the five Americans who got into action in the first round matches, John O. Levinson of Chicago, escaped summary elimination, while one, R. A. Stranahan of Toledo, withdrew from the tourney.

Levinson stamped himself as a possible title contender. The former Yale player and 1936 New England champion, shot sensational golf over the Royal St. George's course to defeat W. A. Stevenson of Great Britain, 4 and 3.

Meanwhile Richard Lunn, former Princeton player from Washington, D. C., John H. Forsman, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; A. V. Rogers, Winchester, Mass., and C. C. Trautner, Silver Spring, Md., were beaten the first time out. Trautner took the worst licking, losing to the 19-year-old South African sensation, Arthur D'Arcy (Bobby) Locke, by 7 and 5.

The idle contingent on the final day of play was Dick Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., rated as the most dangerous American contender; Billy Sixie, Milwaukee, who plays a good game of golf and writes it too; Wilford Wehrle, Racine, Wis.; Norman Macbeth, Los Angeles, P. A.; Valentin, Southampton, N. Y.; and J. C. Freshwater, Hollywood, Calif.

Most of the boys figured that it would take a two-round total of at least 156 to get into the match play rounds tomorrow.

The biggest and smallest players fought almost a draw in the opening round. Clarence Yockey, 100-pound shooter from Kansas City, Mo., had at 76, while bulky Olin Dutra, the 225 giant from California, was a stroke lower.

Alex Gerlak, the slender faced combination pro and greenkeeper from Catskill, N. Y., who almost stole the show on opening day last year with a sub-par round, almost shot himself out of the tournament with an 81.

Looks Like Budge To Recapture Cup

New York, May 25 (AP) It took 10 years to find him but tennis fans are convinced Don Budge is the man to bring the Davis Cup back to the United States.

Ever since 1927 when Rene Lacoste whipped Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston and started the cup on its ten year stay in France and England, the United States has sought a player with enough of Tilden's fabulous ability to lead a winning team in the challenge round.

This week-end at Forest Hills, L. I., Budge will step into the post held by Tilden and another great Californian, Maurice McLoughlin, the No. 1 singles berth on the American team. It will be up to Don to lead the way against the brilliant Australian team in the American zone final, the first major hurdle in the cup quest.

Yesterday Budge dropped the first of three sets to Frankie Parker, the youthful New Yorker, who is bidding for the No. 2 singles berth, then romped through the last two sets, giving Parker a lone game in each.

Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist of the Australian team split two sets of doubles combination against Vincent Richards and Berkeley Bell.

Both teams will taper off for the remainder of the week and practice lightly on the West Side Tennis Club stadium court at Forest Hills, where the American zone finals will be played Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Barnyard Golfers Place Chic's Crown

Despite threatening weather and finally a downpour of rain that halted the horseshoe pitching games for about an hour at Chic's Recreation Center, Glenside, Sunday afternoon, a crowd of barnyard golf fans turned out to see the thrilling contests between Spring Lake and Chic's Recreation Center.

Spring Lake with Chet Albertson, the former New York state champion, and John Swint, former Ulster county champion, showed the assembled fans why they held the titles in defeating Bailey and Roosa of Kingston, representing Chic's Recreation Center by scores of 39-30, 51-41 and 52-37.

Singles contests and scores were as follows: Swint 51, Bailey 32; Albertson 50, Roosa 37; Roosa 52, Bailey 47; Swint 52, Albertson 41; Albertson 50, Bailey 28; Swint 52, Roosa 27.

John Swint, the former Ulster county champion, proved to be the best mudder as the wet courts did not deter him from putting on an exhibition that was positively marvelous considering the conditions made by the weather.

Next Sunday and every Sunday during the summer, contests will be played by outstanding pitchers at Chic's Recreation Center.

Although his bout is not listed as one of the double features on the fight program at the Municipal Auditorium, next Friday night, Joey Turck, local featherweight, counts on stealing the limelight with his campaign in the squared circle with Mario Severino.

"I want to box him," said Turck last week, after seeing the Schenectady Babyface batter pound out a win over Roy Collier, clever 126 pounder from Albany. "I'm not bragging, but I think I can lick him. If you fellows will give me the chance."

Severino just nodded his head affirmatively when asked whether he'd return this week to meet Turck. The quiet little fellow, who does all his talking in the ring, with his fists, had no comment to make concerning Turck's opinion, other than to say, "We'll see who'll win."

The flashy little up-stater is one of the ranking featherweights of the Adirondack A. A. U., who has defeated some of the mountain division's best boxers and hardest punchers. Several weeks ago he took a decision over Kingston's Kid Chapple.

Turck also holds a win over Chapple, a technical knockout, and on the strength of that his friends rate him an even chance with Severino. Others say Chapple had an off night, and that Turck was lucky. Of course, Chapple thinks this way, and wants another chance. He probably will get it after a rest from ring activities for several weeks.

"Severino is not a hard hitter," Chapple is not in talking of the Friday fight, "and I think Turck may sneak one over on him maybe to finish him. Joey can hit hard. I made the mistake of letting myself open for his right."

Severino's defense is not as good as Chapple's. He hasn't got that long left to poke into his opponent's face. He's young, though, and plenty durable. However, a good stiff punch may bring him down and that's what Joey Turck is depending on.

Turck is no novice. He's had plenty of experience. Joey boxed some of the best amateurs back in the days when Lou Ambers campaigned around these parts as a slum pure. All of that ring experience will count when he steps between the ropes to slash it out with Severino.

Because of the attractive card, with its double feature—two main bouts—the mayor's industrial committee expects a full house Friday. Reserved seats should be at a premium by Wednesday afternoon. Those who want the choice of the best are advised to order early by phoning the auditorium, 3718.

The top scraps will bring together Joe Furlin, Middletown, middleweight, and Guy Corneo, Johnstown, slumber, also Frankie Morabile, second best amateur lightweight in the country, and Jackie Filkins, West Point cavalry star. These, like the Turck-Severino pairing, are for five rounds. The other five on the bill is between Johnny Bleski, 175 pound Polish boy from Scotia, and Sergeant Perry of West Point.

There are three three round preliminaries, filling out the program of seven bouts.

Defendants Win in Williams Action

The question of whether Gust Williams transferred a parcel of property to his son and daughter under circumstances which amounted to preference payment over other creditors, was decided in the negative in supreme court Monday evening when the jury which heard the evidence in an action brought by Hudson Counties Estates, Inc., against Gust Williams, Walter G. Williams and Fannie E. Williams, returned a verdict for the defendants.

Hudson Counties Estates sued to have a deed set aside on the grounds that the property transferred was deemed to the son and daughter of Mr. Williams without consideration. This was denied and the verdict of the jury substantiated the defendants in their contention that there had been a legal consideration and that the transfer was not made to avoid payment to other creditors of the Williams Lake Corporation.

During the trial testimony was offered by the plaintiff to indicate that property on which the Williams Lake pavilion and beach is located at Blinnewater had been transferred to the two children of Gust Williams without a consideration and just prior to a foreclosure action on another property in which a deficiency judgment was taken by plaintiff company. The plaintiff sought to prove that the Williams Lake property was transferred for the benefit of the two children and to give them preference over other creditors. The transfer was made prior to the foreclosure and prior to any deficiency judgment being in effect. The foreclosure was on another parcel of property.

Defendants offered testimony with figures to show that they had worked for their father for a considerable time and had actually invested their wages in the Williams Lake property and that the transfer to them was made in consideration of this sum.

The verdict was rendered by a 10 man jury, it having been stipulated to try the matter before the short panel. Working until late to conclude the case, which was the last trial matter of the term, the jury did not report its verdict until about 8:30 o'clock at night. The jurors were then excused for the term. Justice Russell will return on Friday to receive the report of the grand jury.

Arthur B. Ewig appeared for the plaintiff in the action and Peter H. Harp, of New Paltz, for the defendants, Williams.

Justice Russell submitted one question of fact to the jury for determination. That question in effect was whether the Williams Lake Corporation was insolvent or on the brink of insolvency at the time of the property transfer and if so whether the transfer was made in an attempt to show preference over any other creditors by the transfer of the property to the son and daughter in consideration for any sum which the company owed them.

The jury's answer was "no", substantiating the claim of the defendants that the transfer was made in a legitimate manner and in the course of business.

Court will convene Friday to receive the report of the grand jury.

Payrolls in State

Albany, N. Y., May 25 (P)—Payrolls in New York state's retail stores for April showed an increase of 1.6 per cent, Elmer F. Andrews, state industrial commissioner, reported today.

Andrews, in explaining that the figures were based on reports covering 15,089 retailers and 3,911 wholesalers, said that the latter group had a .7 per cent gain for the same month.

Employment increased one per cent in retail stores, Andrews said, while a one-half of one per cent decrease was noted for wholesale establishments.

Lions Entertained
By Blind Artists

At the regular meeting of the Kingston Lion's Club, held Monday evening in the Governor Clinton Hotel, the members were entertained by two blind artists from the Albany Association of the Blind.

This program was in keeping with the Lions Club purpose to aid blind people.

Miss Cecile LaDue, who will be in charge of the sale for the blind to be held in this city some time in the month of June, introduced Eva Radley, who rendered several vocal selections and then gave a demonstration of the use of the sewing machine by a blind person.

The second artist was Neldon Van Denburgh, who gave several violin selections and demonstrated the work of the male element of the blind in the manufacture of ash trays, belts and other novelties. Mrs. Floyd Van Denburgh, mother of the blind violinist, accompanied both entertainers.

The program made quite an impression on the members of the club, according to President Gordon A. Craig.

The Name Cabal

The name cabal is used to indicate a small party formed to further personal or party ends. Usually employed in a political sense, it is often used otherwise—in business, etc. It is a "coined" word, and has a very interesting history, notes a writer in London Answers Magazine.

The cabinet of Charles II was composed of the following: Clifford, Arlington, Buckingham, Ashley, and Lauderdale. These men had many enemies, who took their initials—C. A. B. A. L.—and strung them into a name for the cabinet. There is another theory, however, that this use served to popularize the word, which was in use in England long before the time of Charles II.

It is said to be derived from the Hebrew, "qabbalah," meaning accepted tradition.

FISH AND GAME
ACTIVITIES

The most complete and thorough stocking of legal size trout ever made in the streams within the territory of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association has been completed for this season with the placing of over 5,000 legal size rainbow trout in the Esopus and Traver Hollow streams during the past week.

This number together with the brown trout which have been planted this year, makes a total of nearly 12,000 trout released by this association.

This number together with those released by the Phenicia Fish and Game Club and the Upper Esopus Club, will exceed over 25,000 legal size trout released in the Esopus Creek, beside those that have been released in the other streams.

Nearly every trout stream in the county has been stocked with some legal size fish, the number depending upon the size of the stream.

These fish were shipped from the state hatcheries at Rome, in the tank trucks used by the department for distribution of this size fish. Many of the fish received were nearly twelve inches in length, and all were over legal size. Each load consisted of about 1,600 fish and were received in exceptionally fine condition.

The placing of oxygen tanks on the trucks and the releasing of a certain amount from the tanks during transportation, makes possible the transportation and stocking of this size fish.

Not a single fish was found in poor condition in the three truck loads which were received last week. This is a really remarkable record when one considers that they had been transported about 160 miles by truck before being released.

The size of these fish prevents their being transported very far except in tank trucks. It is therefore necessary in the planting, to be near the streams with the trucks, in order that as soon as they are removed from tanks they can be released.

The neatness of the streams to roads in this vicinity, greatly facilitates distribution and enables a much wider distribution than is possible in many vicinities.

These fish were well scattered and were distributed from Phenicia to Cold Brook, so each fisherman should be able to get his share of them from his or her favorite fishing grounds.

Opium Den Found
In New York City

New York, May 25 (P)—Acting on a complaint of neighbors that there were "funny rags" around the windows of a five-room apartment in upper Manhattan (144 W. 113th street) today, detectives of the narcotics squad raided the place and arrested 16 Chinese on a charge of violating public health laws.

The "funny rags," said Detective John Cottone, were wet burlap bags placed about the windows to keep opium fumes from seeping out.

Cottone said they found 12 Chinese in the place and complete opium-smoking apparatus, including four pipes, all warm, eight lamps, and 12 cans of opium.

Four more Chinese who arrived while detectives were there also were arrested. Sue Lee, 37, was charged with maintaining the place and with possession of narcotics.

Wells

Wells were primitive man's first means of obtaining water in places removed from lakes and streams. Arabs in the Sahara desert have dug them for centuries. The deeper the well the warmer the water, since the temperature of the earth increases toward the center. Artesian wells (so called because they were first extensively used in the French province of Artois) have been dug to supply warm water for heating hospitals, greenhouses and fish-ponds.

Greetings Among the Arabs

Among the Arabs of northern Africa, the ritual of greeting demands that the man "looking down" should always speak first, irrespective of his birth, wealth, power or dignity. Thus, notes a writer in Collier's Weekly, the man on a camel greets first the man on a horse, the horse-back rider nods first to the mule rider, the mule rider bows first to the donkey rider, the donkey rider to the pedestrian and the pedestrian to the sitting man.

750 Legionnaires
By May 27, Goal
Of Kingston Post

Kingston Post, American Legion, has 734 members, Chairman Lester Barth of the membership committee told a reporter this morning and said that by Thursday, May 27, he expects to be able to announce a new record, surpassing the former July total of 738 during the commandership of Conrad J. Heiselman, now mayor of Kingston.

"We are out for 750 Legionnaires in Kingston Post," said Barth, "a new record—just another high mark for Commander William T. Roedel as head of Kingston Post. I feel certain the Legion can make it, to help establish Roedel's term in office as the banner year for Kingston Post."

To date Commander Roedel has established several new records as head of the Legion and hopes to be able to report to the state department the new high figure of 750 members. Many of the ex-servicemen who became members did so through the influence of Commander Roedel or his good work since he took over the leadership of the post. Eligible veterans, who have not been invited to join, are asked to get in touch with Chairman Lester Barth, phone 1914, so they may help swell the ranks of Kingston Post for the report at the county meeting Thursday.

Commander Roedel's term will soon end, and new officers will be elected to run the Legion for the ensuing year. A nominating committee, appointed at the regular meeting last Friday, is functioning now. The members are all past commanders, Lester C. Elmendorf, chairman; Sam N. Mann, Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, Eugene A. Freer and Eugene B. Carey, former mayor.

It's good traffic policy to describe pitilessly what happens to people in automobile accidents.

Eckener Declares He Must Have Helium

Washington, May 25 (P)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, German lighter-than-air expert here to confer with government officials, said today "we must have helium."

The dirigible builders, who has just completed a personal investigation of the Hindenburg wreckage, said the length of his stay in Washington "depends upon the success I meet with."

Because the United States has a virtual monopoly on helium, Eckener expressed hope this country would modify its present laws and permit use of the non-inflammable gas in German dirigibles.

Man Loses $1,060
In Billiards Game

Troy, N. Y., May 25 (P)—Police said today that a friendly game of pocket billiards with two strangers cost Anthony Crispo, 52, the sum of $1,060.

Crispo reported that with $75 in his pocket, he began playing a game with a man he met on street. Soon Crispo went to the street to draw $1,000 from his savings account. He returned with $1,600, he told police.

A second stranger entered the stakes went out to "buy" and did not return. Then when Crispo went in search of him, his $1,000 cue game vanished.

Police are helping Crispo hunt both men.
